

Who Am I

Hello, my name is Martin Feuillet. I love learning from creation. I'm taking full advantage of what the land of opportunity has to offer. As far as who I am, I'm still finding out with a positive outlook

Creativity - Trading - Social Media Marketing

Here is a summary to save you time.

Day Trading: The stock market is an ocean with a beautiful marine life ecosystem and a big boat.

Marketing: Needs to entertain the conscious, surpass the subconscious and reach the heart.

Philosophy: 369 limitless or 269 limitless, depending on your perspective. It is an idea that can be broken down and solve many issues that come to mind.

Bonus: If you scroll to the bottom, there is a list of free services.

Here is a longer summary if you want some more.

Starting online e-commerce brands I learned how to fully connect consumers to a product through unique ideas to outcompete saturated markets.

I pivoted into Idea creation for content creators. I have gained a deep understanding of the social media world I grew up in by understanding different outcomes of watching social media.

I devoted over 10,000 hours to learning the art of day trading and accumulated seven clients from the success of my history. I learned about life through this experience; a transformational journey helping me learn to control emotions and gain an inhabitable ability for creative pattern recognition.

M9Trades.com courses, 1 on 1 video calls, investment club. Let the trades speak for themselves

M9Market.com Creating and catching trends with events and influencers. Boosting influencer engagement through pattern recognition in their content, In connection to their initial audiences

Thinking and not consuming. Believing in yourself is your best version. First principle thinking. Mastery of a skill. Master mastery. Push yourself to create new limits-self improvement.

limitless

Trading

I have three and a half years of experience over 10,000 hours and have taken every path that one can take in the stock market. Day trading is the safest path; it is the only form of trading where I can hold an advantage. The stock market is an ocean, a beautiful marine life ecosystem, and a big boat. I watch the other fish to spot the boat's hooks and nets, and then I make my move.

Swing trading and long-term investing. I found success and failure, as you never honestly know what will happen in these overnight situations. At first, I would devote my time reading 10k forms and other types of company analysis. Then I applied similar principles and strategies, swinging options, and the same cycle repeated. After both these cycles, I revised my design and thinking. The 1st loss made me sound. The 2nd loss made me great.

I had to learn to see the net, and the hook is a little more complicated. Learning and observing my own and others' emotions, I found success from being able to read the feeling of the chart and shifting perspective/intelligence levels to see different thinking while looking at the same chart. I use fundamentals to understand the flow of money and the type of audience trading to figure out the signature moves. These and a few other prerequisites I follow create a timeless strategy.

Below is my past

Bullet points show what's added not gained

1. Account value $0

- 35
- 60

2. Account value $1000

- 4000

3. Account value $30,000

4. Account value $3000

5. Account value $98000

6. Account value $1.27

Did I give up? No

Started businesses to raise capital to continue investing

Acquired $10,000 New Account New Strategy

I learned to keep silent about my account value. I disconnected myself from my account in every way possible to remove all emotion. Telling others my account value created a stronger connection to the fund since others perceived me a certain way and Vice versa. It would also build my ego. I don't allow myself to use money from my account. Win or lose, it's the same I grow, or I learn.

The first big loss made me better. I learned a lot but not enough, as I was still too greedy. I was consistent, but I always wanted more. The second big loss was the best thing to ever happen to me. I put my head down. I opened my eyes and learned to play the game. During both losses, I learned to control my emotions and realized a lot about myself and trading. When Investing for others, I had to control my emotions and their feelings. Having to fully control everyone's emotions who was in my trading room inevitably made me ten times better.

Tips For Trading

- When you trade, you get put into a fight or flight mode. You lose all ability to use your past knowledge for your trade. Meditate before you trade and while you trade.

- Don't learn from the internet. Download Thinkorswim and trade the past. Once you create your patterns that work, go on the internet to learn from others.
- The price correlates to everyone's reaction at every level. Future and Past. Not the value of the company
- Take small amounts to large amounts not for skill but for emotional control to go up with you.
- Record everything. Self-reflect in different ways. Just because it went south doesn't mean you are wrong.
- At a certain point, you will have a clear strategy. Only use it 0-5 times a month. Be very picky

Transferable skills

Creative pattern recognition

Out the box and in the box thinking

Emotion Control

The process of mastery

Learning to test a hypothesis

Search engine optimization

Macro and Micro Trends

Connecting the dots

Focus and patience

Enjoyment without needing anything

Current

M9trades.com

Let the trades speak for themselves

Future trading plans

In the summer of 2024, I will take the series seven exam to start a hedge fund.

Marketing

I have worked on two primary businesses; Dropshipping companies and idea creation for content creators.

The key to drop shipping can be looked at from two angles: safe and risky. With the safe route, you pick a product already selling and get some of the pie, but you're competing against established companies who got there first and already found the right audience. Riskier route, you can pick a product that you believe will do well for XYZ and launch your store, and you could find a winning product with little competition. With this route, you need to keep building stores for every product. A first-stage dropshipping business doesn't run into operational issues; the focus is only on marketing and store conversion rate (design). I have launched seven different two successful one of which was a nonprofit for koalas during the Australian fires of 2019

Growing up with social media, I knew this was my entrance into the business world. From a young age, I would use my analytical mind while watching social media and shift to different perspectives to see what messages are portrayed. Noticing both the good and the bad, the moments that caught my attention and moments that made me bored. Both endeavors gave me an in-depth understanding of targeted and creative ads. When you think about social media all the time your life starts turning into a bunch of social media moments. People can analyze social media, songs, movies and all creative aspects but the best thing to analyze is real life. God is the greatest director. Ask yourself, show me a social media moment and wait and see.

What I learned

Marketing must entertain the conscious, surpass the subconscious, and reach the heart.

How? using original content.

Original meaning created from nothing. This is hard to do in our world since we are born to be consumers. In general targeted Ads work when they are shown at the right time. Additionally, they have to portray that product to be the best choice. This style of marketing is oversaturated as the Cost per thousand increases dramatically. The bigger the company, the longer this style will stay working only because of the previous branding. Social media algorithms are changing. Going from follower based to content based: creative ads will take over. Some companies have an advantage: they have almost everything you can imagine and all work together. For example facebook is the one who truly decides whether you profit or not since they place your ad in the environment and choose the timing. Those who are taught only know what they have been taught. That is why the good is infinite and the bad are limited.

A great tip is to use a color palette to create a similar tone throughout the post, then turn up the vibrancy. If all the colors are very different, the vibrancy will seem very edited rather than full of life. While watching the post, the conscious mind needs not to expect anything but rather a surprising buildup with a stall, then a false "surprise," and then it is shown the real surprise. The subconscious needs to know what will happen but gets tricked at the first "surprise." You now have their full undivided attention. The audience is important but not as important as everyone makes it out to be there already receiving what they want, so it's not your job to find them. Taking advantage of the internet from a young age and participating in the internet revolution, experiencing shifting trends of all social media platforms from a consumer standpoint, has elevated my awareness of all the pieces that complete the puzzle.

Transferable skills

Trends

Website design

Business ads manager

Influencer growth

Account growth

Social media analysis
Consumer behavior

Current

M9Market.com

Nilla.com

Nilla is fully automated, and I no longer do any work.

M9 Market has two stages.

Stage one

Taking full advantage of all the new audiences on Tiktok Reels Shorts and other platforms. M9Market knows social media from a in house perspective. M9Market creates an environment where influencers can create an interconnected web of original content.

The environment consists of any marketing campaign where content can be filmed. An example: A drone Show and depending on the company looking to market, A list of activities will be available. Stands promoting in different ways, providing a great experience in the heavy foot traffic areas.

Part of the company includes a team of two prominent Influencers. Micro-Macro influencers will be contracted at a much cheaper rate. Working with larger influencers, contracted influencers will put their best foot forward as they want to grow and connect rather than only promote. Contracted influencers will be met with to understand their audience and strategies. As a team, we will create a blueprint to click all audiences' influencers and stories to create a connected movie to best benefit the company looking to market and their specific strategy. Creative pattern recognition from my trading experience will be used to analyze the influencers chosen. Gathering data from all different elements to what makes them specifically go viral. All parties involved benefit from the data collected. Influencers can find new strategies to grow they didn't think of before. Companies can create profiles of similar influencers to narrow down the large selection of future choices. Influencers help their audience get reached; the goal is to reach the explore page. Shooting for high numbers rather than specific conversions within their audience. Several different types of influencers will be contracted to perform certain ads. Original thinking is the key. Creating this type of content allows others to generate ideas from the ad. Company content is filmed and edited to suit long-form and short-form media. The whole process: all the activities and influencers collaborating will be seen from a third-person perspective. The company continues posting months down the line.

Services can be provided together or separately.

If you're interested, Email me for an in-depth summary of all possible strategies this is just a small piece of what M9Market truly has to offer.

Stage two Coming soon!

Dream big, work hardest.

M9Market in 50 years will be the most advanced creative agency in the world. With the best applicable dataset of the future of humans. M9 Market is aiming to be 1st. Competition are friends but watch out WPP.

Far Future

I think of ten business ideas everyday. I plan to execute great ideas.

Philosophy

-Becoming the best version of oneself is the goal.

Two options become one or devolve into one. It's your choice.

-369 limitless or 269 limitless, depending on your perspective

It is an idea that can be broken down and can solve any issue that comes to mind

-doing drugs and drinking during your developmental stage as a human lets you become influenced by your environment. Less competent, less healthy, less happy. No drugs

-Focus in life is key, not just focusing but being able to focus every part of your brain on completing the task. Different parts of the brain activate certain activities they were trained to do. Learn to make it one.

-Unlock your subconscious mind and remove the fear that holds you back.

-Either be fully immature or fully mature, with no in-between. We are God's Children. This is our playground. This is how to be creative to have original ideas that come from nothing. Being able to execute them comes from determination.

-Don't waste your thoughts.

-Everything in life is a lesson. The faster you learn, the more lessons will come your way so you can grow more. Experience is the best knowledge.

-Accepting everything in life is a win/win. The next level to this mindset is that everything is your fault. You gain more experience since you create more mistakes.

-Don't learn from others, don't learn from the internet, just think and think and think. Form every angle possible. Then you can learn from others to aid your thinking. A way to imagine this is what is better, learning to count from 0 or trying to start at 10

-One can speak in labels, ideas, experiences, mastery, then lifetimes.

-Make decisions when they arrive.

-Paradoxes can be solved by creating other paradoxes; the second paradox has to be one step ahead.

1 2 3
2 31

-Anything and everything is fun. Cut out meaningless Dopamine. To see within.

-The only thing we are in control of is the moment. The closer you reach it, the closer you get yourself. Let the future do what it does best and let the past give you all the lessons for your future, but it is not the same. All three are the same.

-It's all one-dimensional.

-Meditate. Then meditate better. Always be in the state of improvement.

- Master a skill, then learn the transfer of mastery, then master mastery.
- Don't negatively interfere with others' free will.
- Trust the process
- We are in service to others.
- Be aware of your habits and program yourself.
- Be yourself
- The best way to understand the universe is to understand within you. You can always divide by 2. Both ways are infinite
- Don't waste your energy/thoughts towards others in negative ways.
- It's you with you with you. So if you want to win, become your best self.
- Download information from the sky. Keep your mind empty so that it is full. You have all the answers within you. Be curious.
- To be the most creative, stop listening to music, stop watching movies, stop reading, stop consuming. This is information from mortals. Be Immortal.
- Perception. You will find and remember what you are looking for. You remember what you focus on.
- Believe in yourself and believe in others.
- Love everyone; there's no reason not to. If they did you wrong, they did you right. Deep down, we are all born the same.
- I have the full explanation down to the word level for 98% of these ideas. I wrote out what would best show conclusions. These came from experience.

How to align yourself with the version of you who will accomplish great things. By believing and removing fear. What you ask for will come, but it won't be given. Every day do something hard and push yourself further every time, making it more challenging. You're programming yourself to this mindset, not to your environment.

SAVE THE WORLD

If interested, email me for an in-depth guide to self-improvement hacks.

FINAL NOTE

Never Give UP

